REVEREND CHARLES BROWN TO SPEAK AT MARTIN LUTHER KING MEMORIAL PROGRAM

DAYTON, Ohio, January 10, 1984 -- The Rev. Charles Brown, Th.D., pastor of Bethel Baptist Church in Dayton, will speak at 4:30 p.m. at a Martin Luther King Memorial program on Thursday, January 12, at The University of Dayton Immaculate Conception Chapel.

In his speech, entitled "Martin Luther King: Hero of the Unfinished American Revolution," Rev. Brown will discuss the philosophy of Martin Luther King, Jr. and contemporary society. The University of Dayton Gospel Choir, under the direction of David Brown, will also perform.

Prior to assuming full-time pastoral duties at Bethel Baptist Church, Rev. Brown served as an associate professor of practical theology for the Yale University Divinity School. He was also a professor of Church and Society at the United Theological Seminary in Dayton from 1968 until 1979.

For more information on the Martin Luther King Memorial program, contact James Stocks, assistant dean of students, at (513) 229-3321.
