NEIGHBORHOOD DEVELOPMENT IN THE '80S TO BE DISCUSSED AT UD

DAYTON, Ohio, March 26, 1984 -- A conference entitled "Neighborhood Development in the 80s" will be held at the University of Dayton on Saturday, April 7, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

James Cunningham, Sociology professor at the University of Pittsburgh, and co-author of Building Neighborhood Organizations, will give the keynote address in the John F. Kennedy Memorial Union West Ballroom at noon. Cunningham will speak from his broad experience and study of neighborhood organizations across the country. In the afternoon, a series of workshops will be offered to cover a range of topics that reflect local concerns.

The conference, coordinated by the UD office of Strategies for Responsible Development (SRD)-University Outreach, will provide a forum to exchange local "success stories" of neighborhood initiative, and to introduce neighborhood representatives to a range of resources available at UD and elsewhere. Participants will have the opportunity to hear experts discuss the potential of community development corporations.

Registration is limited to 100 people and must be made by Friday, March 30. A $3 registration fee will help cover the cost of lunch and conference expenses. For more information, call SRD at 229-4641.
