UD AND CREATIVITY 80s
TO SPONSOR WORKSHOPS

DAYTON, Ohio, September 11, 1985-- The University of Dayton and Creativity 80s will sponsor two workshops on creativity and innovation during the month of October. The first workshop, to be held October 16 from 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. in UD's Kennedy Union, is entitled "Thinking as a Skill." The half-day workshop for educators is sponsored in conjunction with the Western Ohio Education Association and will enable educators to learn new ways of challenging students' thinking and creative problem solving techniques to supplement traditional reasoning skills. The workshop will be led by Carol Shaw, assistant dean of UD's School of Engineering, and Robert Barthelmy, deputy director of the Aero-Propulsion Laboratory at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. For more information on registration contact Anne Hubler at 229-4634. There is a discount for registration prior to September 20.

The second workshop is a two-day seminar on Innovation in Organizations. The seminar will be held October 21 and 22 at the Dayton Convention Center. It will feature Gifford Pinchott III and Rosabeth Moss Kanter, world renowned authors and management consultants as well as key innovators from top corporations such as Eastman-Kodak, Mead and General Motors.

For registration and fee information contact Wanda Schoen at 229-4606.
