DAYTON, Ohio, August 24, 1984 -- William J. Hoben, dean of the University of Dayton School of Business Administration, will resign from that deanship as of June 30, 1985. He will, however, continue to serve at the University.

Dean Hoben was named an assistant professor of accounting in 1957, assistant dean of the School of Business Administration in 1959, and associate professor of accounting in 1961. He was appointed dean with the rank of professor in 1963, after serving one year as acting dean.

In announcing Dean Hoben's decision to the University faculty, Brother Joseph W. Stander, S.M., vice president for academic affairs and provost, said of Dean Hoben: "In his 27 years of service he has always personified the utmost loyalty and dedication to the University and the School of Business Administration. The recent approval of our undergraduate program by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business is only one of his more recent accomplishments in a virtually interminable list."
