MAY 4-7: TOP HORN SOLOISTS AT UD FOR INTERNATIONAL COMPETITION

Musicians from around the world will gather at the University of Dayton May 4-7 for the 1989 American Horn Competition, the only international competition for horn soloists. Approximately 60 musicians from around the world are expected to participate in categories for university students, professional musicians and performers on the natural horn, an ancestor of the modern horn which has no valves.

The musicians will perform in the Kennedy Union Boll Theatre on campus, with all sessions open to the public. Preliminary rounds will be held Friday, May 5 at 1 p.m. and Saturday, May 6 at 9 a.m. The final round will be held Sunday, May 7 at 11 a.m.

A featured guest and judge will be Thomas Bacon, regarded by many as the United States' foremost horn soloist. He will conduct a clinic and master class for local musicians on Friday, May 5 from 10 a.m. to noon in Boll Theatre.

MAY 6: UD WORKSHOP WILL BRING HIGH SCHOOL CHEMISTRY TEACHERS TO CAMPUS

In response to declining scientific literacy among students in the U.S., nearly 50 chemistry teachers from area high schools will attend a workshop at the University of Dayton on Saturday, May 6 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Wohlleben Hall Rooms 101 and 110. This third annual workshop for teachers is sponsored by UD's chemistry department.

The workshop will focus on "ChemCom," a new syllabus for high school chemistry designed by the American Chemical Society and now being used in more than 40 states by about 40,000 students. The aim is to present chemistry in a way that emphasizes the practical aspects. Teachers at the workshop will participate in hands-on experiments from the syllabus. Sessions with experiments will be held from 10:10 a.m. to noon, and from 1 to 2 p.m.
