ASSISTANT DEAN AND FOUR NEW FACULTY
APPOINTED TO SCHOOL OF LAW

DAYTON, Ohio, May 15, 1975 --- Richard L. Braun, Dean of the University of Dayton School of Law, announced four new faculty appointments as the Law School prepares for its second year of operation.

Professor Keith Joseph Hey, formerly Assistant Dean and Director of Admissions of Temple University School of Law, joins the faculty with a varied background in teaching and law practice. Awarded the LL.M. at Georgetown University Law Center in 1969 and the J.D. from Creighton University School of Law in 1963, Hey has held teaching positions at Washburn University School of Law, Georgetown, and Temple. Focusing his teaching on contracts, sales and consumer law, he has also initiated student volunteer programs in community legal services in Philadelphia and introduced the first course in Law and the Consumer at Temple.

Dale A. Normington, Assistant Professor, comes to UD from the University of Akron where he has been an Instructor of Business Law since 1973. A graduate of the University of Akron, Normington served as a U.S. Army Captain offering legal assistance to Army personnel on matters such as estate planning, powers of attorney. Normington is presently an attorney with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

George Carey, appointed Associate Professor, formerly Assistant Professor of Law at the University of Alabama, brings to UD his expertise in Tax Law. A Harvard law graduate, Carey received the LL.M. in 1974 and the J.D. from Catholic University in 1969. In addition to teaching at the University of Alabama, he was Assistant Professor of Law at Loyola University, New Orleans, Louisiana 1972-73 and an attorney with the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of the Chief Counsel for the Internal Revenue Service, 1969-72.

Fred M. Greguras, appointed Assistant Professor and Assistant Dean, served as a Captain in the United States Marine Corps Reserve, received his J.D. from the University of Nebraska College of Law in 1975. During the past two years, he developed the plan for and conducted the preliminary feasibility study of computer-assisted legal research for the Legislature of Nebraska. He also holds a bachelor's and master's degree from the University of Nebraska.

These appointments bring to twelve the total number of law school faculty.
