DAYTON, Ohio, November 3, 1976 -- High school students and their parents are invited to meet with representatives of approximately 80 colleges on Monday, November 8, at a College Night program offered by the University of Dayton from 7:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m. in the UD Arena.

This annual College Night is the seventh one hosted by the University. The program was originally set up for Ohio catholic colleges but was expanded to include colleges, universities, and professional schools throughout the country.

Sponsored by the Catholic College Coordinating Council, College Night is a chance for high school students to get a look at different institutions of higher education.

Myron Achbach, director of admissions for UD and organizer of the College Night program, comments: "The area high school students and their parents will benefit from the services and information made available to them at this program." The college representatives will be able to explain to the parents about such things as financial aid; how to apply, how to qualify for federal aid, and which students will be eligible to obtain financial aid at the individual schools. Other areas that the representatives will cover are specific requirements for admission, programs offered, and general information about campus life. Students and their parents are urged to attend this College Night program at the UD Arena.
