The daylong seminar on May 18, part of World Trade Week in Dayton, will focus on export and investment issues resulting from the passage of NAFTA for small and medium-sized companies interested in Mexico and other Latin American countries. The conference will feature a keynote address by Pedro-Pablo Kuczynski, president and CEO of Nueva Management Inc. consulting firm. He previously served as managing director of First Boston Corp., chair of First Boston International, Peru’s minister of Energy and Mines and deputy director general of the Central Reserve Bank. Cost, including the World Trade Week luncheon, is $125.
