NOV. 10: STUDENTS PIG OUT ON ICE CREAM FOR PEDIATRIC AIDS FOUNDATION

More than 50 University of Dayton students will be bingeing on ice cream at 12:30 and 1 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 10, in the Kennedy Union Pub.

The University’s Delta Sigma Pi business fraternity is sponsoring its annual hog-a-thon ice cream eating contest to benefit the Pediatric AIDS Foundation.

Students — eating in groups of four — will see who can finish 10 scoops of ice cream the fastest. The chocolate, vanilla and strawberry ice cream will be topped with whipped cream and cherries.

Students paid $2 per person to take part in the contest. Prizes will be awarded to the fastest eaters.

NOV. 10: SPEAKER TALKS TO UD STUDENTS ABOUT SEXUAL ASSAULT

Katie Koestner, an outspoken date-rape survivor and sexual assault prevention advocate, will speak to University of Dayton students at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 10, in the Kennedy Union East Ballroom.

She will give a presentation about her experience with date rape titled “He Said, She Said.” Brett A. Sokolow, a lawyer who specializes on sexual assault policy and law, will also speak.

In 1990, Koestner made her case public when she became outraged about the “inadequate response” she received when she reported the crime to the College of William and Mary in Virginia. She received national attention, appearing on the Oprah Winfrey Show, NBC Nightly News and Entertainment Tonight as well as about 40 other programs. She also appeared on the June 3, 1991, cover of Time magazine.

Koestner and Sokolow started Campus Outreach Services Inc. in 1994 to provide sexual assault risk management consulting programs for campus administrators and education programs for students. The organization also provides expert witness services and participates in lobbying efforts for sexual assault legislation.
