The 9th Annual Schraut Memorial Lecture

This year's Schraut Lecturer is Dr. Robert Bolz (66), Vice President, JSF Global Industrial Integration, Lockheed Martin Corporation. His talk is titled "Leadership founded in habits of inquiry and reflection."

Information about previous Schraut lectures can be found here.

The 23rd Biennial Alumni Seminar

In every even-numbered year since 1964, alums of the Department of Mathematics return to the University of Dayton to gather together and meet with students interested in mathematics. The alums enjoy the opportunity to inform students about the professions they are in and how their studies in mathematics relate to their careers. The students have the opportunity to understand the breadth of career opportunities for someone trained in the mathematical sciences and have the opportunity to begin making connections with professionals in the various fields.

This year the Seminar will consist of a panel session followed by break-out sessions. During the panel session, professionals representing various careers will be introduced. These professionals will in turn give a brief introduction to specific careers. Break-out sessions will then follow the panel session. In the break-out session, students can meet with the professionals more informally and learn more.

Break-out sessions will be held for:

Statistics	Business
Information Technology	Government
Engineering	Teaching
Actuarial Science	Financial Engineering

This year's panelists include:

Dr. Chad R. Bhatti (01), JP Morgan Chase – Consumer Risk Modeling and Analytics

Dr. Robert Bolz (66), Vice President, Lockheed Martin Corporation

Mr. Thomas Britt (85), Senior Actuary, Nationwide

Dr. Joseph Diestel (64), Professor, Kent State University

Ms. Carrie Herman (03), Mathematics Teacher, Centerville High School

Mr. Robert Karkoska (73), National Security Agency

Mr. Dave M., Cost Analyst, U.S Government

Ms. Ruth Pera (05), Marianist Volunteer Program

Dr. Thomas Santner (69), Professor, Ohio State University

Ms. Diane Schulte (75), Director, Strategic Initiatives, Noblis

Mr. Curtis Schultz (01), Vice President, Citigroup

Mr. Terrance (Terry) Stretch (1966), Principal, Stretch Associates
