Introductions of all Senators.

Remembering Professor Dennis Greene

The Senate observed a moment of silence in remembrance of Dennis.

Brief description of Senate documents and their location on the Senate website and process for bringing items to ECAS which sets the agenda for the Senate.

Approval of the Minutes from 17 April 2015.

Approved by unanimous consent.

Presentation on Course Re-take Policy

Presentation by Tom Westendorf, Registrar and Jennifer Creech, Associate Registrar (Attached as addendum to the minutes).

Robust Discussion ensued and many questions were raised. Among them are,

- Why is the policy as generous as it is?
- Does a drop late policy have an impact on a retake policy?
- Are all courses listed on the transcript?
- What impact does the re-take policy have on international students and what impacts might a revised policy have on that particular population? Are there

- other populations at the University that might be affected by a change in the policy and to what extent might they be affected?
- Is the registrar's office able to model the impact of any changes in the policy to assess impact on student success and persistence?
  - Are there any notable trends in course retakes year over year?
  - Is it possible to get a breakdown of the grades that are being replaced?
  - Is it possible to get a DFW rate for courses over time?
  - Of students who use the policy, for how many credits do they use it? Is it more likely to be one course (3 credits) or 5 (15 credits)?
  - Are retakes taken with the same professor?
  - What are the reasons for looking at this policy now?
    - Responses include: The Associate Deans's memo; policy is 20 years old
  - Some key questions: 1. The calculation of the GPA (Sem vs. Cumulative GPA); 2. Should the number of hours available for retakes change? 3. What grade should be recorded?

Comments--

- Institutions in our peer group may have policies in addition to the course retake policy that, when taken as a whole, render "the generosity" of our policy more equitable with the peer's. We must be careful in benchmarking our policy that we are comparing like kinds.
- We should note that our policy is applied equitably to all students.
- The policy refers, in part, to how GPAs are calculated and students often misunderstand the policy as is so any changes must be clearly communicated to students and advisors.
- Change in the policy may promote mastery of material in highly sequential courses

Consideration of Draft Charge to APC

Examination of the UD Course Retake Policy

Charge to the APC

ECAS requests that the APC conduct a thorough review of the academic merits of the current Course Retake Policy at the University of Dayton.

This review should seek to answer two questions:

(1) Does the policy represent the appropriate level of academic standards for UD undergraduate students taking into consideration one UD goal of assisting students be successful?

(2) Is the policy able to be implemented and administered without serious unintended consequences?

If the answer is 'no' or 'unclear' to either, the review should recommend policy revisions.

In particular, the APC should

- ☐ Investigate the academic purpose of such a policy
  - ☐ Investigate the scope of the usage of the policy
  - ☐ Assess the academic desirable and undesirable impacts of the policy
  - ☐ Compare the policy to the policies of our peer institutions
  - ☐ Describe any recurrent advising issues affecting students and advisors relative to the policy (opting to fail a course because of the policy, misunderstanding how grades are reported to graduate and professional schools)
  - ☐ Recommend any necessary changes—if any-- to the policy and supply a rationale for those changes
- In conducting this work, the APC may want to consult with the Registrar and Associate Registrar, with the Associate and Assistant Deans of the College and the Schools, with SGA, Graduate Academic Affairs, and with others as needed. As part of its report to ECAS, the APC should summarize the process it has used in conducting its work, summarize UD's policy and how it compares to our peers's policy, recommend specific changes (if any) to the policy and supply a rationale for those changes.

ECAS would like this work to be complete in early March, 2016.

The Draft Charge was approved by the Academic Senate. ECAS will present the charge to the APC.

Committee Reports

APC

Joe Valenzano, Chair

--voted to send the program change proposal from the School of Education and Health Sciences for a Middle Childhood Education Intervention Specialist Program back to ECAS with our recommendation of approval

SAPC

Myrna Gabbe, Chair

Our first meeting was Wednesday 16 September 2015.

Meet Wednesdays in Humanities 472

Task: To review UD's document on Political/Electoral Activities, Policies, and Practices.

Rationale: It has been observed that our students are not very politically active, and it is understood that the university is an ideal place for students to become political beings and to learn how to respectfully engage their political adversaries. But in order to protect UD's tax-exempt status under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, UD must comply with certain restrictions regarding political campaign activity on campus.

As it stands, however, UD's interpretation of this tax code appears to be too restrictive. Under activities that are not permitted, the policy states: "Any and all activities that favor or oppose one or more candidates for public office".

SAPC will investigate whether the policy is based on a legal interpretation that is too conservative. But, it may also be that the policy is simply unclear and that it is misunderstood by students and other members of the UD community.

Thus, we also determined that the policy could use some clarification.

To this end, we have invited representatives from the Legal, Student Affairs, the Finance/Accounting office to our next meeting, as well as Dean Peirce.

Timeline: SAPC is to make recommendations by the end of fall semester, 2015.
